The special Senate committee appointed to investigate the causes for the great increase in the cost of living between 1900 and 1910 naturally did not agree, as it was made up of Republicans and Democrats, and the latter will present a minority report. The majority report was submitted to the Senate, June 24th, by Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee, and is an exhaustive one. It was found that the wholesale price level in the United States in general advanced during the period from 1900 to 1909 inclusive 14.5 per cent, and that the increases have been so much greater in products coming either directly or indirectly from the farms than in any other line excepting products of the forest, the conclusion must be reached that the most important cause of the present advance is to be found in a study of farm conditions. Concerning the advance in the cost of food, the report says:

"The supply of government available land for general farming has been materially reduced and the ranges are being rapidly cut up into homes for settlers. The cost of producing live stock has materially increased with the disappearance of the range, which necessitates producing cattle on tame pasture and high priced lands."

A study of the tables concerning wholesale prices of farm and food products indicates that the advance in the United States in ten years has been more rapid than in Great Britain, Germany and many other European countries, but that they had simply approached more nearly the world level of prices.

It is shown, however, that the advance in wages has been more rapid in the United States than in European countries. The report says:

"Wages in the United States advanced in about the same degree as did prices, until 1907. Salaries have advanced but very little during the last ten years."

Hours of labor in practically all wage occupations are shown to have been reduced. This reduction affected the weekly earnings of employees for the reason that the large majority of wage-earners are employed on the piece basis, or at an hourly rate.

"The prices of many of the trust-produced commodities have not advanced as rapidly as have other commodities. In some cases where such produced commodities have advanced greatly the advance appears to be due largely to other causes, such as short supply."

It was found that labor unions had not been apparently a serious factor in contributing towards advancing prices. Advanced cost is laid in some measure to increased expense of distributing food by wholesalers and retailers.

The committee found from the testimony of retailers that housewives bought in small quantities and upon rush orders, a practice that has greatly increased the expense of doing business.

The report says it is clear that the consumers must pay the cost of advertising and the cost of fancy packages. Trading stamps and vouchers entitling the holders to premiums, are paid for by increased prices of food products. It was shown also that increased freight rates had a great deal to do with increased prices.

The Fairchild Journal says:

The one idea of the average town road commissioner seems to be to get as much of the mud and grass growing in the gutters into the middle of the road as possible. As an example of how not to do it one has but to take a ride through some of the roads to be found in the towns of China, Winslow and Vassalboro. Roads that were fairly passable and in fair condition before the attention of the road commissioner and his infernal "road" machine are now strips of bog and mire, that are practically impassable for an automobile, and over which it is impossible to trot a horse.

The road machine affords a convenient way of paying political debts with the taxpayer's money. Six to eight horses and four or five men to a machine calls for the disbursement of a good deal of money, and when the work is done under the superintendence of men who are given the positions in return for their votes and influence good roads are to be expected.

THIRD DISTRICT REPUBLICANS

Renominate Hon. Edwin C. Burleigh of Augusta by Acclamation. His Able and Untiring Services for the District Recognized and Commended.

HON. EDWIN C. BURLEIGH.

A unanimous renomination as Republican candidate for representative to Congress from the 3d Maine district was the honor again bestowed upon Hon. Edwin C. Burleigh of Augusta Tuesday afternoon, July 28th, at the 3d District convention, held in the Augusta City hall. Hon. William T. Haines presided and in assuming the chair said:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:

"I thank you for the honor you have bestowed upon me in choosing me as your presiding officer. It is indeed an honor to preside over a body of men who represent one-quarter of the Republican voting strength of the State of Maine. I will not take up much of your valuable time in discussing the political issues or in discussing the Democratic party. I see too much of them at home. I have, however, lived long enough to note the marked progress in the country and in the Republican party. Since the founding of this country it has been ruled by two parties, the Democrats from 1800 to 1860 and by the Republicans from that date until the present time.

"In this period of insurgency and discontent I want to ask if any man here is not proud that he is a Republican. When this great party was founded there were only 31 States. Now we have 48 States, 90,000,000 people and $125,000,000,000 in property. This state of affairs was made possible mainly through the wise guidance of the Republican party. We have 6,000,000 people engaged in manufacturing and the total value of the products of their labor is inestimable. In 1860 we were only half as large as France and Germany, now we are many times larger than the two combined.

"Have we, who have voted the Republican ticket for so many years, anything to be ashamed of in that record? During the past year it required 35,000,000 cars to move the products of our manufacturers, and it is because we have protected American labor and American capital that such a state of affairs exists."

Mr. Haines here launched into an able defense of the tariff policy of the government, in which he declared that the tariff was made to protect home industries and that the last tariff law was the best piece of tariff legislation yet enacted.

"The fundamental principle of the tariff law," said Mr. Haines, "is a question of American labor versus foreign labor, and it was for the immense benefit of the American laborer that the last tariff act was passed. The Democratic party criticizes and predicts national disasters, but I tell you the tariff will never be revised by the Democrats, because the South and West both demand protection for their fast increasing manufacturing. The tariff question must be settled by a commission. It is a scientific question. In their demand for recognition by the American public the Democrats cannot face the record of honest, good, efficient government granted the people by the Republican party, and that is what they will have to face when they ask for a chance to administer the affairs of government."

"The present Congress has finished its labors with a record far more beneficial than any previous Congress ever did, and that great man, President Taft, has shown to the people that he is worthy of the trust placed in him. He has the courage to tell the railroad magnates that they must do things because they are right, and he has the courage to tell the labor unions that they must do things because they are right. We have reason to be proud of him and of the grand old party of which he is the present leader, and that is why, gentlemen, that I said it was a great honor to preside over this convention of loyal Republicans and I will endeavor to perform the duties of chairman to the best of my ability."

Mr. Haines' speech was vigorous, clear and true and his able exposition of the tariff law and his brilliant sallies at the expense of the Democrats met with frequent applause.

Judge Augustine Simmons of North Anson made the nominating speech and spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:

Ever since Maine became a State it has had the wisdom to extend the experience of its servants in Congress so long as they have been able and conscientious. If a public official possesses ability and adaptability, industry and influence, integrity and ingenuitiveness, pleasantness and persistence, justice and judgment, care and courtesy, honor and honesty, the more experience he has the more value in him.

A kind heart and gentle ways, the offspring thereof, are more effective than oratory in extending the acquaintance and enlarging the influence of a congressman with his associates. Congressional speeches are seldom listened to, and more seldom are they read by the people. The men who do things rather than those that say things accomplish things. Committee work and personal interviews are the opportunities for power in the modern Congress. The vanity of oratory is self-satisfied, but the people demand sense and care and painstaking labor rather than eloquence. They want representatives that have neither visions in the morning nor nightmares at noonday. If oratory could elect a President, Bryan would have been chosen in 1896, when his bombast was voiced in the sentence about the crucifixion of labor on a cross of gold. Three times since then the American people have crucified him on a cross of silver. He stands the incarnation of modern Democracy with all its wild-cat theories of finance and government. His tyrannical conceit so completely dominates his party that the chances indicate his fourth nomination, and his fourth crucifixion will be on a cross of brass.

Contrast him with Grover Cleveland, not an orator, whom the national Democratic organization hated from the time they knew he would not nominate for office the corrupt politicians they selected; and, to cap the climax of their abuse, they passed a resolution at the Chicago national convention in 1896, the convention that nominated Bryan the first time and declared for free silver, condemning Cleveland for sending a troop of United States Cavalry into Chicago, to suppress the railroad riots of 1894, when freight cars, loaded with the property of citizens of other States, were sidetracked and burned, and brickbats were hurled through passenger car windows. And this resolution, written by Altgeld, the Democratic governor of Illinois at the time of the riots, who refused to call out the State troops to save life and property, expressed the sentiment of the national organization, but not of the masses, of the party that claims to follow the doctrines of Jefferson and Jackson.

Since then the people have had no confidence in the leaders of the Democratic party, and the old Republican claim that the Democratic organization is not fit to administer the affairs of the national government was verified. Hundreds of Democrats in Maine and thousands elsewhere left the party at that time, and notwithstanding its faults, they looked to the Republican party for sense and stability in government and finance.

The Democrats now rely for their success on temporary Republican dissensions, but their hope is an hallucination, to culminate in their usual defeat, because the people cannot and will not trust them.

Gentlemen, you identified our candidate by the qualities I named in the beginning, and it is now my duty to pronounce his name. I move that our candidate be nominated by acclamation, and that the secretary be instructed to cast a ballot for the Honorable Edwin C. Burleigh.

Thomas Leigh, Esq., of Augusta, in seconding the nomination said: "For 12 years you have sent Edwin C. Burleigh to Congress from this district. He is from Kennebec. He is ours. We laud him. We know him. We have felt the touch of his hand and of his friendship. Men of Waldo, Hancock and Somerset, he is yours, too. He is so efficient, so untiring in the performance of his duties that he belongs more to the entire people of Maine than to any district." As showing the estimation in which Mr. Burleigh is held by people outside of the State Mr. Leigh quoted from personal remarks made to him on different occasions by three New York Congressmen, Messrs. Olcott, Driscoll and J. Sloat Fassett, all speaking of the untiring industry, ability and personal popularity of our Congressman. Mr. Fassett said: "That man Burleigh is a thoroughbred. He is regarded as a man of rare judgment and ability. He doesn't talk much but he accomplishes a great deal and if the country had more men like him it would be much better off."

Continuing, Mr. Leigh said: "Gentlemen, Edwin C. Burleigh is first, last and always a man of the people, and I take supreme pleasure in seconding his nomination."

In seconding the nomination in behalf of the Waldo county delegation Orlando E. Frost of Belfast, said: "The condition of the Democratic party reminds me of a story I once heard of a man who started to climb an icy hill, and just as he reached the top he slipped and began to slide down. Half way down the hill he collided with a woman, who landed on his back, while he continued to slide. Soon they reached a level spot and he turned around and said to the lady: 'You will have to get off now, I don't go any further.' 'Two weeks ago the Democrats commenced to slide down the hill and when the election is over they will have a chance to say:

"This is as far as we go." Mr. Frost told some other pat stories which brought applause and laughter from the audience and then gave from his personal knowledge an illustration of Congressman Burleigh's kindness of heart and his willing endeavors in behalf of his constituents, irrespective of politics. A neighbor, a Democrat, had a boy whose ambition it was to enter the navy. He received an appointment and was taken from the high school and sent to a preparatory school to qualify for admission to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. At the end of a year he took the examination but failed to pass. He was given opportunity for a second trial and spent another year at the preparatory school, at the end of which he was successful in passing the examination. But close application to his studies had affected his eyesight and he did not pass the physical examination, and although he was told that he might have another examination later, he felt that the case was hopeless and greatly disheartened he bought a ticket and started for home. Before he had gone far on his journey something induced him to turn back, and he went to Washington and stated his case to Congressman Burleigh. Mr. Burleigh said to him: "My boy, stay right here and I will see to it that your ambition is realized if I have to go to the President for a special appointment." His advice was followed and admission to the Naval Academy was secured and the young man is now on a three months cruise abroad learning the rudiments of the profession he is to follow and enjoying visits to foreign countries under the flag which it was his desire to serve.

ORLANDO E. FROST.

All the speeches were liberally applauded and enthusiasm reigned throughout the entire proceedings.

The following resolutions were adopted:

The Republicans of the 3d Congressional District of Maine, believing the record of their party demonstrates that it is, of all political parties, the most responsive to public needs and most effective in accomplishing beneficial results, cordially invite all to unite with them in support of these propositions:

Commendation of the splendid administration of President Taft, one of the ablest and most productive this country ever had. It had scrupulously fulfilled the pledges it made to the people and deserves general approbation.

Endorsement of the progressive and efficient measures for wise regulation of corporate interests engaged in our interstate commerce.

Continued allegiance to the policy of protection as applied to raising our tariff revenues, a policy under which this country has secured its greatest prosperity, and which is essential to our welfare and absolutely necessary for the maintenance of the American standard of living.

We commend the revision of the tariff, achieved with the least possible disturbance of business, and call attention to the excellent results obtained under the new revenue law.

We heartily endorse the methods, adopted by the last Congress, for providing comprehensive, unprejudiced and scientific information upon which shall be based such modifications of tariff schedules as may be found necessary by reason of changing conditions.

We refer with pride to the successful efforts of the Republican party, as result of which this country has maintained a sound currency.

We fully approve the faithful, able and successful record of our honored representative in Congress, Edwin C. Burleigh. We are proud of what he has accomplished by zealous, untiring and distinguished service. We pledge him our loyal and enthusiastic support.

The convention was called to order by Judge J. W. Black of Searsport, chairman of the district committee. J. P. Nichols of Searsport was one of the secretaries, James H. Howes of Belfast, vice president for Waldo county, and Wilmer J. Dorman of Belfast, a member of the committee on resolutions.

The following were elected as members of the district committee: Judge J. W. Black of Searsport, chairman; W. A. Wildes of Skowhegan, secretary; W. H. Davis, Bar Harbor, and F. D. Kinsman, Augusta.

PATTANGALL vs. DEMOCRACY.

If there is any one thing which the people of Maine dislike above another it is a one-man dictation, and that is precisely what Mr. Pattangall has handed out to the Maine Democracy. He started out months ago to defeat Mr. Gardner. He has traveled up and down the State whispering his dulcet tones into the ears of his Democratic friends. The consequence is the utter routing of Gardner and the nomination of Plaiside. That was one-man dictation, something the Democratic party of Maine is supposed to abhor above all other things.

But in his personal victory Mr. Pattangall has killed the hopes of the Maine Democracy. With Gardner to draw the farmer vote there was a fair possibility of winning, but with Plaiside, who is nothing but a politician—and a professional politician—there isn't a ghost of a show. But Mr. Pattangall hasn't been a Democrat so long that he has any natural love for the principles of Jefferson, and because of this fact he had no scruples whatever about projecting his own personal wishes into the campaign and destroying the fair prospects of victory for the party. Possibly the Democrats can stand this sort of thing; history will show that the Republicans couldn't. —Independent-Reporter.

LEGISLATIVE NOMINATIONS

FRED A. TIBBETTS, of Palermo,
ARTHUR W. KNIGHT, of Monroe.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

"The finest convention I ever attended" was the remark of Howard Owen of Augusta, the veteran newspaper man, at the close of the Republican State convention held in City Hall, Augusta, June 29th. That was the general sentiment of those who attended this meeting of earnest, enthusiastic Republicans from all parts of the State. There was not a discordant note. The convention was a unit in sentiment and in purpose, and every delegate was confident of a victory at the polls in September and ready to do his part to ensure "an old fashioned Republican majority." The addresses were of a high order of merit, whether regarded from an oratorical or a literary standpoint. Seldom before have more able speeches been made in a State convention. They showed that the Republicans intend to meet every one of the Democratic charges and insinuations without equivocation or attempt at evasion. They dissipated the falsehoods of the Democratic newspapers and orators as the sun drives away the fog, revealing the Republicans of Maine in line ready to do battle against the common foe, Harry D. Austin of Phillips, who presided, sounded the keynote of Republican principles. His speech was able and was built upon a foundation of logical argument. From the lips of William W. McCann of Poland came the eloquent and inspiring words which placed Gov. Fernald's name before the convention. A farmer, an old schoolmaster, a thinking, staunch and progressive Republican, Mr. McCann voiced the sentiment of the farmers of Maine in his eulogy of Bert M. Fernald and praise for his administration. Oscar R. Fellows of Bangor spoke for the young men of the Republican party in seconding the nomination of Governor Fernald, and made an able address. Walter C. Emerson of Portland, legislator, orator and newspaper man, added to his laurels as a witty and eloquent speaker in endorsing Governor Fernald; and last, but not least, speaking for old Kennebec, came the Hon. Herbert M. Heath, whose masterly argument, whose logic and sound common sense, whose eloquence and enthusiasm gave to Gov. Fernald an endorsement which few men have ever received in a State convention. He told what Maine senators and representatives had done to preserve the industries of this State and dwell at length upon the fine financial showing and the progressive policies of Fernald's administration. He made it plain that the Republican party had been expending the money of the taxpayers of the State to lessen the municipal burdens of the people and to take upon the broad shoulders of the State the burdens which the State should bear. Eloquent, scholarly and logical, Mr. Heath gave to Fernald's administration the strongest possible endorsement from the view-point of a business man and a close student of the broad questions of State politics.

Then came Governor Fernald's speech of acceptance, in which he replied to and refuted the charges of his Democratic accusers. The Democrats have charged extravagance, mismanagement, misappropriation, misuse, nullification, impending bankruptcy; indeed, almost all the sins in the political calendar, and these charges were squarely met and their falsity shown, in terms that all could understand. It was shown that the Republican party has fulfilled its pledges. It has administered the affairs of the State in a wise, honest and progressive manner. It has managed the finances well. It has not increased the tax rate. In fact, as Governor Fernald stated, never has the rate of direct taxation for strictly State purposes been so low as now. It has decreased the public debt; made it the lowest of any State, and kept the financial standing of the State at a high point. It has equalized taxation. It has carried out the broad policy of causing the State to assume a greater share of the expenditures that benefit the State as a whole, thus relieving the localities of their burdens by distributing them. It has put the revenues to good use and supplied urgent needs. It has raised more money for education, for the relief of the unfortunate classes, and for highway improvement and other public works. It stands on its record and challenges criticism.

The platform which was adopted by this convention, and which was received with enthusiasm, rang true and was in tone with the harmony of the Republican party. It embodied progressive policies, staunch and unequivocal endorsement of the principle of prohibition, a plank favoring some honest method of conducting party primaries and endorsement of the national administration.

Two United States Senators died last week, John W. Daniels of Virginia, and Samuel D. McEnery of Louisiana. The latter was buried June 30th from his late home in New Orleans, and the funeral of the former took place July 1st in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Lynchburg, Va. Senator Daniels was a Virginia gentleman of the old school and one of the few remaining public men to continue the oratorical manner and language of the past. They were both lawyers by profession and had seen service in the Confederate army.

HON. EDWIN C. BURLEIGH.

For the eighth consecutive time the Republican voters of the 3d Congressional district have nominated Hon. Edwin C. Burleigh of Augusta, that he might continue his unremitting and well directed labors at the National Capitol. How well he has served his State and his district we all know, and his usefulness in a wider sphere has been generally recognized by his fellow members. It has often been said that if there were more men in Congress like Burleigh it would be better for the country, as he brings to his legislative duties rare business abilities, tact, and unemitting industry. Added to that he has attained a personal popularity and influence in Congress and in the Departments accorded to few. His Democratic opponents can bring no more serious charge against him than that he is not an orator. That charge is not only Mr. Burleigh's credit but attests the ignorance of his accusers of present day conditions. Oratory long since ceased to be a factor in national legislation. This is a practical age and business ability counts in Congress, as it does elsewhere. In years past, before oratory had gone out, the rising of an orator to address the Senate or House was the signal for the newspaper men to desert the galleries.

Waldo county has special reasons for supporting Mr. Burleigh, and has always done so heartily. Few men living in the county have a more intimate knowledge of the people, and of conditions here, than he. His personal acquaintance is extensive and in every town may be found those whom he has benefitted by some kindly act or service. We are indebted to him for the R. F. D. routes which carry the mails daily to nearly every door in the county, and to accommodate this useful branch of the postal service an extension to the post office in this city, for which Mr. Burleigh secured an appropriation, is now in course of construction. Pension matters have had his special attention, as many a veteran and veteran's widow can testify. Visitors to Washington from this district, whether on business or pleasure, have had their purpose furthered and been received with unfailing courtesy. His election is assured, and it is only a question as to the size of his majority. Votes for his opponent will be thrown away. In view of what he has done, and will do, for this county, he should receive its unanimous vote.

The observance of July 4th long since lost all semblance or pretence of patriotism. It is a time of rampant hoodlumism, of malicious mischief, of the wanton destruction of property, of maimed and killed—a day looked forward to with dread. Day is hardly the word, for the riot runs over many days, beginning before and continuing after the Fourth. Throwing cannon crackers under the feet of skittish horses, or under the feet of unwary pedestrians, ringing in fire alarms and building bon fires of personal property are favorite amusements. In many of the larger cities effective measures have been taken to put a stop to practices which have made Independence Day a saturnalia and a disgrace to civilized communities. Boston leads in this reform, and the Globe says of the night of the 3d in that city:

Instead of being traversed by a never-ending procession of shouting, shrieking, horn-blowing and cowbell-ringing youth, firmly resolved to make a night of it and to deprive all the world of sleep as far as possible, the streets were more deserted than usual for a Sunday night, and nowhere, not even in the North, West or South Ends, in the common haunts of that leisure class to whom excitement and turbulence are meat and drink, was even the sound of a penny whistle or the sputter of the smallest firecracker to be heard.

The First district Republican convention, held in Portland, June 30th, nominated Asher C. Hinds of that city for Congress by acclamation. Judge E. C. Reynolds of South Portland and Col. Frederick Hale of Portland withdrew, and seconded the nomination of Hinds and pledged him their hearty support. Of Mr. Hinds' speech accepting the nomination the Portland Press well says that it "is notable for its high literary standard, for its idea of the functions of a representative, for its evidence of study of and familiarity with the political history of the country, for its broad and progressive spirit, and for its vindication of Republican policies and particularly the policy of protection." We quote a single paragraph:

Of course it is a habit to look upon a representative in Congress as a servant of the nation. But he is a national servant for the people of a certain district, as well as for the whole people. The First district of Maine rests with one foot on the land, the other on the sea. The sea brings the multitudinous needs of maritime commerce, with harbors, lighthouses and ships; on the land are the large interests of agriculture and manufacturing. I assure you that I do not view lightly the duties of the great trust which you propose to place upon me. I will make it my duty to know your interests as well as I may and, with your advice and assistance, so direct my efforts that this district may have its just share in the abounding life and progress of the nation.

The Republicans of the 2nd Congressional district met in Lewiston, June 30th, and renominated Hon. John P. Swasey of Canton as candidate for Congress by acclamation. Congressman Swasey accepted the nomination in a brief speech and referred to the charge made by his opponent, Hon. D. J. McGillicuddy, in accepting the Democratic nomination a few weeks ago, that Mr. Swasey voted for a trust, and said that he wished to say in plain English that it was a lie. He was a protectionist and voted for the protection of American industries according to the Republican policy. He said that he stood by Taft in every measure and had supported all Roosevelt policies, and declared he had not cast a vote nor made a speech that he regretted.

A WORD FOR BELFAST.

We send out this week nearly one thousand Journals in addition to our regular list, and they will go to every town in the county. Their mission is, in part, political, and in part to say something in behalf of the business interests of Belfast. For months past our business men have been subjected to misrepresentation, from motives clearly understood here, but which may not be apparent to those outside of the city. The sum and substance of these attacks upon the business men of Belfast is that there is no market here for farm products; that prices of merchandise are higher here than elsewhere; and it is further charged that our professional men are incompetent and our county officials corrupt. The people of Waldo county know better. Many of you have had, and have now, business relations with Belfast and know the falsity of these charges. Some of you know the motives which inspired them; others do not, and the result has been injury to our city, commercially and in reputation. Belfast is an important part of Waldo county, and a decrease in her prosperity must affect the whole county. It is the business and financial center of the county. It has excellent shipping facilities, both by land and water. Its manufacturing industries give employment to many from the county, and it affords a ready market for the farm, garden and dairy products which enter into daily consumption. It is the depository of the savings and the custodian of the checking accounts of people all over the county, representing in the aggregate over three millions of dollars. Its excellent educational advantages are open to pupils from the outlying towns. Its business men are enterprising and honorable, and prices here are as low as elsewhere in the State on goods of like quality. If any doubt these statements, made in good faith for the general good, come to Belfast and give our business men an opportunity to prove that they have been maligned. Then look up the record of their accuser.

Ex-Governor Cobb presided at the Knox county Republican convention, and his remarks on taking the chair sustained his well deserved reputation of saying the right thing at the right time and in the right way. He made no allusion to his own candidacy for U. S. Senator, but spoke of that contest as follows:

"It so happens that after the election in September the men who are chosen to represent the several towns in the State senate and house will be called upon to elect a U. S. senator. The main point to be considered in this connection is not who that senator is, but is he a Republican, and, it seems to me, the question should not be allowed to enter, even in the remotest degree, into this fall campaign."

"We want first to elect the county and State ticket; after that has been done let the question of senator take care of itself. I desire to state that no friend of mine will bring anything to this campaign that will jeopardize the county election in any way."

The Republicans of the class composed of the towns of Lincolnville, Liberty, Searsport, Morrill, Palermo, Northport and Belmont have nominated as their candidate for Representative to the legislature Mr. Fred A. Tibbets of Palermo. This class was represented in the last legislature by a Democrat, Allen H. Miller of Lincolnville, but from present indications he will be succeeded by a Republican. Mr. Tibbets was for some time a resident of Belfast and made many friends here. He is a young man of ability and sterling worth and his election is confidently predicted.

It is told of a certain citizen, long since passed to his reward, that he lost no opportunity of proclaiming his relationship to Governor Crosby; but it is said that Governor Crosby was never heard to admit relationship with the aforesaid citizen. We have no doubt that the Democratic candidate for Congress in the 4th Maine district would be equally adverse to admitting the claim of kinship put forth by a resident of this city, who also claims descent from the first president of the United States. "O, what a fall was there, my countrymen!"

Eight weddings in Bangor June 30th created a shortage in the hack and automobile supply and a tremendous rush at the caterers and florists. The "June bride" is unusually numerous this year, and the many weddings that are taking place are indicative of the general prosperity.

Of course Mayor Hanson re-elected himself president of the Belfast & Moosehead Lake railway, and he enjoys the distinction of being the only mayor of Belfast to make this personal use of the city's stock. The position is not an important one, but the title has a certain value.

The Rockland Opinion published a letter from California last week, and has thus laid itself liable to be read out of the Democratic party by a self-styled "non-partisan" paper. It also ventilated a fraud order case, which is another cause of offense.

The Republicans of Waldo county will emulate the Republicans all over the State in rolling up an old-fashioned majority in September. The county ticket is one that commends itself to the intelligent voter.

Sometimes a grain of truth gets into a non-partisan paper, as for instance when it was said of a man that he "would have been a strong candidate if elected."

The Democratic press speaks of certain Republicans as "standpatters." Well, we do not have to stand Pattangall.

Let critics and carpers say what they may Theodore Roosevelt is the most prominent personage in the world's eye today.

The Journal is not a non-partisan paper. It is a Republican paper, and does not sail under false colors.

The children's day service at the Universalist church last Sunday was very interesting. The altar and platform were daintily decorated in pink and white, roses predominating. Excellent music was rendered by the regular church choir. Three infant children, Francis Henry Stevens, Emily Chadwick Rackliff and Ruth Eleanor Smith were christened and dedicated to the Christian life. Each child was presented an opening flower. It was a very sweet and solemn service and made a lasting impression on all who witnessed it. The pastor, Rev. Ashley A. Smith, spoke briefly of the lessons drawn from childhood, and the services closed with an open communion.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

General Highway Improvement

To the EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL: On Monday, June 14th, at the Cony House, in Augusta, Maine, was held the third meeting of the special committee of the State Grange appointed by the State Master, as a result of a resolution passed at the last annual session of the State Grange, to consider the matter of general highway improvement. At the meeting held on the 14th representatives of the State Board of Trade and the Lewiston and Auburn Automobile Club were present, as well as the State commissioner of highways. These parties were all present at the second meeting of the committee some three weeks ago. At these two meetings the general road situation was talked over very thoroughly with especial reference to the maintenance and repair of the common dirt roads and the execution of the ordinary town road work. At the meeting three weeks ago the committee was unanimous in its opinion that changes in methods, which would bring about more economical expenditure of the ordinary road funds and better results as well, could only be brought about through some method of intelligent supervision; such supervision carrying with it authority to make rules and regulations for carrying on road work and authority for enforcing those rules and regulations. After three weeks of thought and study the committee were again unanimous in its opinion that this was the first step which must be taken in order to secure a change in the present-day maintenance.

As a basis for discussion and by way of opening the question at the meeting three weeks ago the State commissioner was called upon to briefly outline the new system of highway administration recently put into effect in the State of New York, where the State Commission has supervisory powers over the expenditure of all road money, whether raised by the town, the county or the State. Their scheme of administration briefly is as follows:

A State Highway Commission having supervision of all construction and maintenance work; county or district superintendents, the district superintendent being appointed by the State Commission to have charge of one or more counties where the Commissioners of such county or counties fail to appoint a superintendent; and finally the town superintendents, who are elected by the voters of each town for a term of two years, but who may be re-elected at any time after a hearing on charges of incompetence, malfeasance or misfeasance in office, preferred by the State Commission or by twenty-five voters in the town.

The State Commission annually prescribes rules and regulations for the expenditure of town maintenance money. All work is done subject to the inspection of the county or district superintendent, whose orders must be obeyed, and who reports to the State Commission.

This system of supervision is made possible in New York State on account of the State paying a certain percentage of the cost of all maintenance work. The committee of the State Grange and their associates in conference feel that the principles of intelligent centralized supervision is the first change which must be made in our present system to bring about very material changes in results. It is the desire of the committee to give this idea as wide publicity and as general a circulation among the people of the State as possible and to this end we hope you can find space in your paper to print this letter and we would also cordially invite editorial comment and opinions of the citizens of the State at large touching on this question.

The members of the committee are W. G. Hutton, Winthrop, Maine, R. F. D.; George Alden, Gorham, Maine and E. M. Lawrence, Rockland, Maine.

The next meeting of the committee will be held at Augusta, on August first, at the office of the State highway commissioner.

Letters commenting on or criticizing the conclusions of the committee as expressed in this letter may be addressed to any member of the committee or to the State highway commissioner, Augusta, Maine, and all letters will be given consideration at the next meeting of the committee.

Trusting you will be able to give the space desired to help along this educational work I beg to remain, for the committee, who have asked me to write this letter, and for myself personally,

Your obedient servant,
PAUL D. SARGENT,
State Commissioner of Highways.

FOLEY'S ORINO LAXATIVE FOR STOMACH TROUBLE AND CONSTIPATION

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.
To the EDITOR OF THE JOURNAL: As you are doubtless aware, the laws of Maine provide for appointment by the Governor of agents to enforce the statutes against cruelty to animals, whose jurisdiction extends over the whole State. This is a wise provision, for it enables the work to be done by men who are not affected by local circumstances.

One such agent, Dr. J. H. Rollin, appointed at the request of the Farmington Humane Society, devotes his whole time to this work, and can be called upon by any person, to go anywhere. His salary is paid by contributions from citizens and summer residents of Maine. Among the contributors was the late Hon. S. T. Pullen, president of the Portland Humane Society. On the committee having charge of the fund are John Kendrick Bangs, Mrs. Deland and Bishop Doane.

Dr. Rollin has had a long and varied experience with horses, and is well known to the trotting horse men of the State. His instructions are never to prosecute, unless a prosecution is necessary, and in most cases a warning is sufficient. Special efforts are made to assist poor men in the care of their horses and cattle by medical treatment, by gifts of blankets, and in other ways. Destitute families, with which the agent is brought in contact, are assisted with food and clothing; and the committee hope to benefit man as well as beast through their agent.

Persons in any part of the State who are aware of any cruelty to animals that should be investigated are advised to call, first, upon the local agent, if there is one; and if there is no such agent, or if the local agent cannot act, or is unwilling to act, then to apply to Dr. Rollin, whose address is Woodsford, Maine. (No notice will be taken of anonymous letters.)

Dr. Rollin acts not in opposition to, but in connection with the local agents, and will be glad to assist any local agent by accompanying him on any visit of inspection or prosecution, or in any other possible way.

Inquiries will gladly be answered by the Secretary, and contributions will be received by the Treasurer, H. M. Burr, York Harbor, Maine. All gifts will be welcome.

Yours very truly,
HENRY C. MERWIN, Sec'y,
Weld, Franklin county, Maine.

Generally backache means that the kidneys are diseased. If they are, do not waste a moment, but begin at once a treatment with Castoria, the greatest of kidney and backache cures. Delay may mean a fatal ending, so do not delay. Druggists and dealers sell Castoria at 50c. a box, and guarantee satisfactory results.

DEATH OF A FORMER SEASPORT MAN. Thomas P. Wentworth, a well-known and highly respected resident of North Andover, Mass., passed away at 8.40 o'clock Wednesday evening, June 15th, at his home, 39 Pleasant street, after a seven weeks' illness of typhoid fever. All that skillful medical attention and loving care could accomplish was done for him. The deceased was born in Seaport, Me., the son of Abram P. and Lucinda C. (Pendleton) Wentworth, and was 49 years, 4 months and 8 days old. He went to North Andover about 28 years ago, and was employed for a long period as a card-setter in the factory of the Davis & Furber Machine company. He leaves a widow; two daughters, Misses Elsie L. and Susan A. Wentworth; three brothers, James E., and Lyman W. of Seaport, and Herbert Wentworth of Olamont, and a sister, Mrs. Daniel W. Sutcliffe of North Andover, Mass. The interment was in Ridgewood cemetery, North Andover.

LAWN FETE AND FAIR. The ladies of the sewing circle connected with the 2nd Congregational church at Park have the arrangements nearly completed for the lawn fete and fair to be held July 19th at the residence of Mrs. Rachel M. Pendleton. There will be the usual fancy work table, a large and varied assortment of bags, and aprons of all descriptions, from awning cloth to the daintiest of muslin. The "Remembrance" table, a gift from every person born in the district of Park, which is under the management of Mrs. E. C. Pike, is sure to prove an attraction. There will be mystery boxes, dolls, millinery, and home-made candies, to interest the children. Mrs. Lizzie Farnham has been appointed chairman of the supper committee, which insures its success. The entertainment is in charge of Rev. C. H. McElhiney, Miss M. Eva Griffin and Miss Elizabeth Park, and will consist of a musical program, with Miss Anne Kittredge of Belfast, reader. Ice cream and cake will be served during the afternoon and evening. Sale opens at 3 p. m. If stormy, come the next pleasant day.

OBITUARY. Mrs. E. W. of George S. Sargent, died June 30th in Augusta where she had been for medical treatment, for nervous prostration. She was the daughter of James B. and Mary Ann (Pendleton) Treat and was born in Seaport 43 years ago, and where she spent her girlhood days. May 12, 1892, she married George S. Sargent. She was Noble Grand of Knyvetta Rebekah Lodge of Seaport, and was an enthusiastic worker of the order. She leaves many friends who will regret to learn of her demise. The funeral services were held at her late residence on Mt. Ephraim avenue Sunday afternoon, Rev. C. H. McElhiney of the First Cong'l church officiating. Members of Knyvetta Rebekah Lodge attended in a body and many were present from Belfast and Stockton. Interment was in the Sargent cemetery. She leaves besides her husband, a son, Walter Sargent, and two sisters, Mrs. Ella Mowry of Seaport and Mrs. Meda Young of Seattle, Wash.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE. The Fourth of July came in like a lion with a heavy thunder storm and vivid lightning and heavy showers until 11 o'clock, when the sun came out brightly accompanied by a strong northwest wind. The parade formed on Howard street, headed by the Seaport band, and marched the streets in a procession. Dinner was served at Union Hall. At one o'clock the band gave a concert on the band stand with a delightful program. The line of march was then taken to the ball ground at Mosman park, where a large crowd witnessed the game between the married and single men, which was very interesting and warmly contested at times. The single men won out by a score of 25 to 8. A band concert at 7 o'clock and fireworks at 8 o'clock at Mosman park completed the outdoor exercises. At 8 o'clock word was received that Johnson had knocked Jeffries out in the 15th round, which was pleasing to many who had small wagers on the bronze cone on account of his great science as a boxer. A grand ball in Union Hall in the evening was largely attended, and this closed the day's festivities.

CURTIS-ROWE. Many Seaport people will be interested in the following account of the wedding of a former Seaport boy in Watsonville, California.

In the presence of immediate relatives of the bride and groom, and two companions of the fair maid who plighted her troth to the man of her choice, Miss Mabel Rowe and Mr. Clifton Curtis were married at six o'clock last evening. Rev. D. F. Stafford officiating. The ceremony was conducted in the house which was beautifully decorated with pink Rambler roses and ferns, the entrance of the couple being accompanied by the wedding march, played by the capable hands of Miss Bertha Brassel, a cousin of the bride, while at the appropriate part of the program Miss Edith Rowe, another cousin, sang a beautiful voice. "Oh Promise Me." Little Miss Marion Rowe, who acted as flower girl, preceded the happy pair and strewn blossoms in their path. Miss Jessie Rowe, a cousin, acted as bridesmaid, and Harry Rowe, a brother, was best man. Following the ceremony the entire party repaired to the barn, which was beautifully illuminated with electric lights and decorated with evergreens. A splendid supper was served. It is said that this banquet surpassed everything in the line of a collection of good things that has been served in this valley in a long time, the wedding embracing everything good that can be imagined or described. Although the wedding guests were confined to immediate relatives, and Miss Frieda Waters and Miss Elsie Seitz, two close friends, the party was a very large one, over sixty people sitting down to the table following the wedding. Capt. Curtis, father of the groom, came down from San Francisco to be present. Following the ceremony the couple took an automobile and left on their honeymoon. Where they went is supposed to be a secret. Miss Rowe is a well known young lady of this valley and has a host of girl friends and other friends. She is a graduate of the Waterville High school and is highly accomplished and very pretty. She is as good as she is beautiful and in winning her hand Mr. Curtis has secured a prize that he may be proud of. The groom is an excellent young man and formerly attended the local high school, where the romance first began.

clanging of bells, banging of cannon crackers, snapping of torpedoes, etc., through the night, and the removal of many articles about the business places and residences—since the juvenile population, apparently, must "root the British" in good shape on our National Independence Day. The reckless destruction of property ought to be avoided always by these lads, who, when older grown, hope to be property holders themselves.

Dr. George Foster of Passadumkeag was in town last Friday in consultation with Dr. G. A. Stevens upon the condition of Capt. Horace M. Griffin, Middle street. We are pleased to hear our neighbor seems more comfortable at this writing and has decided to postpone going into a hospital for an operation for the removal of gall stones; at least, for the present. Capt. G. has been suffering periodical ill turns for some time, which have become more and more exhaustive and painful. We trust permanent relief may be near.

Last Sunday was observed as "Children's Sunday" at the Universalist church. Rev. A. A. Smith gave an excellent and appropriate discourse, at the close of which three children, Miss Beulah Nickerson, Miss Horstene Nickerson and Master Elmer Nickerson, were impressively christened by the pastor. It was commensurately joyous and the sacrament was administered after the baptism and admission to the church of Mrs. Sarah Snell and Mrs. James N. Treat, two earnest workers in the parish.

A party of twenty-six joined the Belfast Universalists at Kidder's Point last Thursday for the excursion to Verona Park by steamer Castine. The day was especially fine, the company very quiet and the trip was most enjoyable. After eating the basket lunches at Verona the steamer took the party up the river as far as Winterport, where two hours were spent, several availing themselves of the opportunity to call upon old friends in the village. On the return the Stockton party was landed at Sandpoint and came home by the last train, all uniting in declaring that the day had been very pleasantly spent. Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Smith were among the Belfast people of his parish participating in this outing.

I., is at home for a two weeks' vacation.... The lawn party held on the church lawn last Thursday night was very successful.... Mr. Robert Peck and family of Nashua, N. H., and Miss Ruby Hurd of Pittsfield are at the Peck cottage.... The schools in the village closed last Friday with a picnic on the shore of Stevens Pond.

BUCKSPORT.

On Friday last the rural route, No. 1, from Bucksport was discontinued and all mail for this route has to go by the way of Stockton Springs. This is a cause of much dissatisfaction to the people who live on the other side of the river. They have been in the habit of receiving their mail each morning soon after the arrival of the mail from Bangor. At Bucksport as yet they don't know when they will receive their mail, only that any Bucksport mail that is put in the office in the morning will reach them some time the next day. They say that to accommodate the carrier and save him crossing the river this change was made.
